This website only lets you answer 10 questions per day for free.

Word Families

Use our Hunks and Chunks from this week and create 5 new words using the following patterns:

"ing"

Then write a sentence using each of your new words. You should have 5 sentences when you are finished.

Science

Give an example of an object that can be cut, an object that can be folded, and an object that can be melted. Draw a picture and write a sentence about how each object's physical properties change.

ABC Order

Write your new Words of the Week in ABC order.

seen sleep week any money*

Then use each word in a sentence. Check for capitalization & punctuation marks!

Character traits analysis

We have been discussing how a character makes us feel when we read. Read a book and write a sentence describing how the character acts in this story. Now write your opinion about the character's traits. What would you have done if you were that character?

*Read 20 minutes every day.

Social Studies

Tell about a landmark you have been to or would like to visit one day.

You can draw pictures and write sentences in your journal or you can create an electronic diary entry using word, power point or another format. Email the finished work to your teacher to share with your classmates.

ow and ou words

Create an "I Spy" activity and locate 10 items around your home that have the ow (like in cow) or ou sound (like in out).

After, ask you parents or siblings to try and find the objects.

I spy something you sit on--- couch

Math

You bought some candy for 10¢ and paid in all coins. What are three different combinations of coins that you could pay with? Draw and label your coins.

*If you're up for a challenge, come up with a fourth combination!

Technology

Use a form of technology to write your words and create sentences. You can use Word, PPT (with pictures), or Notes. You can print or email your completed spelling practice to your teacher.
